Home orchards have long been an integral part of New England life and are currently enjoying a return to the limelight of home agriculture. Tree fruit production can be one of the most rewarding endeavours for a homeowner- and one of the most challenging! In this workshop we will cover the basics of successful orcharding from the ground up. We will discuss apple orchard establishment, training, pruning and grafting as well as introductory integrated pest management (IPM) for tree fruit crops. In the afternoon we will have an opportunity for hands on application of concepts covered in the morning- pruning and pest management go hand in hand!
